We will also look at market verticals like fragrant rice, parboiled rice, basmati rice and broken rice (fragrant and white broken) to deliver insights both from regional movements of rice to a more specific study of market verticals, which are fast becoming an important value proposition to the global rice trade.

The TRT Rice Network 2019 is a workshop from 930am to 4pm (including lunch) that aims to address key issues, identify opportunities, as well as to give attendees a genuine report on the realities of doing business in a new era of rice trading. Volatility in the Euro, Dollar, Rupee, as well as the state of global economies, oil and related markets, as well as the choices available to buyers and the forces that impact these decisions will be the focus on an agenda that aims to shed light on the shape of rice markets in 2019/2020.

“Rice Markets of the Middle East and Africa”

20 February 2019, SHERATON DUBAI MALL OF THE EMIRATES HOTEL, Dubai, United Arab Emirates

This one-day seminar, is built on the platform of information exchange as the team at TRT, Phoenix Global, and friends from the trade, reveal the latest on markets, the road ahead, and focus on some of the challenges and technology. This will provide an excellent opportunity for networking at an opportune time, as Vietnam's winter-spring crop hits markets, as Thailand's second crop and stock auctions are factored in, as India and Pakistan look towards the Middle East for fresh demand, while one eye is also on India's upcoming monsoon.

The agenda will focus on:

- Global markets and price trends
- Vertical markets and key shifts within specialty markets
 - Fragrant rice
 - Parboiled rice
 - Basmati rice
 - Broken rice
- Middle East and African markets in focus
- Chinese exports into the Middle East and Africa – a rising presence over the last two years

Timed to take place along the corridors of Gulfood 2019, Dubai, UAE is the choice venue for 2019. The main aim is to provide business intelligence and valuable peer networking opportunities. The agenda is more practical, featuring actual stakeholders and players across the rice supply chain sharing their experiences, as well as revealing the opportunities and challenges of engaging in rice trading activities in these markets.
